ORGAN RECITAL WILL BE GREAT MUSICAL EVENT

The dedication of the splendid new pipe organ, which is now being installed in St. Joseph's Catholic church which is to occur on Wednesday, June 10, will without question prove one of the great musical events in the city's history, not only on account of the big place which the organ will occupy in the church music in the future, but owing to the eminence of the artist who is to preside at the console for the opening recital. Programs have been arranged for both afternoon and evening, so that all will be given an opportunity of hearing the organ under the hands of Allen W. Bogen of Chicago, a master performer.

In addition to the organ selections by Mr. Bogen, the St. Joseph's church choir will be heard in some classic sacred music. The program for the two recitals follows:

Afternoon Program.
"Gloria" from 12th Mass. Mozart
Ave Maria. Bach-Gounod

CHARGE OF BURGLARY IS BEFORE THE COURT

With William C. Deamer, Thomas W. Peak, Julius A. Smith, Conrad Edvalson, Walter Parry, Job Warner, L. H. Peery, and M. L. Harrison as jurors, the case of the State against Ivan Hicks and John Riley was taken up for trial in Judge J. A. Howell's division of the district court today.

The information alleges that the two men on April 4, 1914, burglarized the dental parlors of Dr. J. P. Dineen at 2465 Washington avenue and stole about $200 worth of the dentist's tools and clothing.

Dr. Dineen testified that certain articles had been taken from his office and he identified wearing apparel and dentist's tools presented to him in open court as the things that were missing.

Police Sergeant O. H. Mohlman testified that he arrested Riley and found him in possession of some of the articles stolen from the Dineen office.

Detective Charles Pincock said on the witness stand that he went to Pocatello, Ida., for the defendant Hicks and that the officers there claimed to have found in his possession certain other articles, which were taken from the doctor's office the night it was burglarized.

RAID IS MADE ON A HOUSE IN THE ALLEY

No. 10 Electric alley, a resort in the old red light district, was raided this afternoon by Detectives Peterson and Pincock. Two women, whose names were not divulged, were arrested in the house and taken to the police station.

The arrests were brought about through a "tip" given to Detective Peterson yesterday that No. 10 had been opened again. The officer reported the matter to Chief Norton and was told to get Detective Pincock and raid the place. This they would have done last night, but as they had planned a similar raid on the Carlisle rooming house, which was successfully carried out, they postponed action until today.

According to the officers, it had been rumored that No. 10 was to be opened again and allowed to run unmolested, but today's raid is believed to have put an effectual quietus to the rumor.

MANY OGDENITES ARE ON THEIR WAY EAST

According to City Ticket Agent Paul Beemer, of the Union Pacific, passenger traffic east over that road has been exceptionally heavy this week. The following departed for the east yesterday and today:

L. W. Richards, for Chicago; Mrs. Lida Durbin, Pueblo; Pearl Lence, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Dora Noble and daughter, Agency, Ia.; B. F. Worral, Denver; E. S. Rolap and son, Denver; Gus Peepars, Denver; Judge V. C. Gunnell, Colorado Springs; Miss Etta Kiesel, Denver; A. B. Oliver, St. Louis; Miss Mary E. Williams, Chicago; Miss Betty Larson, Minneapolis; Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. Alex Gwynn, Chicago; S. Quaintance, Chicago; Miss Elizabeth DeLong, New York; Miss Alice O'Neill, Denver; Miss Edith M. Darrow, Burlington, Vt.; and Katherine Ramsell, Colorado Springs.

In the case of George A. Whitmeyer against the Salt Lake & Ogden Railway company, Judge J. A. Howell has dissolved the order restraining the defendant from building certain tracks on Thirty-first street and Lincoln avenue, leading to the company's car barn.

In his decision, Judge Howell takes the ground that the railway company can condemn private property for a right-of-way in the construction and operation of its road, as the road is devoted to public use and that all branch lines for the good of the car service and operation of the business that are reasonably needed, are free to be built the same as the main line, and that the same rule of law applies to that building as to any other part of the system.

The company began making its improvements before it had a franchise over the public street, but a franchise was granted while the injunction proceedings were in court. The court holds that the city has the right to grant franchises in such instances and that the plaintiff's redress will be in getting damages which accrue to his property by virtue of the improvements made. In the injunction proceedings damages were not asked.

EDUCATIONAL LEAGUE ADDRESSED BY TWO SPEAKERS

The regular monthly meeting of the Ogden Educational league was held last night in the county court house, with an attendance of about 30 members and other persons interested in the work.

The time of the meeting, which lasted about 2 hours, was occupied by President T. D. Johnson of the league with a report on the educational survey of the Ogden public schools, recently made and an address by William Glasmann on the Gary, Ill., school system. In their talks both speakers kept strictly to the subject in hand and their remarks were listened to with a marked degree of interest and attention.

In his report on the school survey, President Johnson brought before the league several important phases of the survey, in which, he said, the survey committee and the Educational league agreed. Among the phases that he mentioned were the condemnation of the half-day or industrial school plan, the objectionable features of the elective system and the bad sanitation in some of the city school buildings. In regard to these he said the league had contended that there was a lack of supervision in the city schools and the things it objected to were also scored by the survey commission.

"Yet, we were called meddlers," he said, when we pointed out that the schools lacked supervision, but the report of the survey commission sustains our charges. We condemned the half-day plan and so did the commission." In referring to the condition of the Madison and other schools, he stated that in spite of this condition, the board had asked the citizens to vote $75,000 bonds for the purpose of establishing a gymnasium at the high school, an act, in the doing of which, the board displayed incompetency.

In view of these things adversely reported on by the survey commission, Mr. Johnson said it appeared that the school board had paid the commission more than $800 to give it a severe lashing.

William Glasmann delivered the other address. He explained the Gary school plan and pronounced it an ideal system.

Following the talk of Mr. Glasmann, W. E. Read, a teacher in the Central Junior high school, read a report of the school survey from "the other side of the fence." This created quite a heated discussion between members of the Educational league and several school principals and teachers who were present. During the discussion the statement of one of the board members, to the effect that all of the agitation against the school system was from a few ignorant persons, was brought up. This brought the report from several members of the league that they might be ignorant, but did not care to be told so by those who were not their superiors.

Mr. Read also stated that Superintendent Mills, in a recent teachers' meeting, said that the "half-day" was a dead issue. Judge J. A. Howell asked whether the statement meant that the half-day plan was a dead issue to the superintendent of schools or to the Educational league. The Mills' partisan had no answer to this.
